

Last year we looked at how the media can influence the regulatory and legislative arena and the impact on the practice of medical physics. Now let's analyze what progress has been made and new regulatory initiatives confronting the profession.